

DISCLAIMER

This map only shows the major trails as they were intended when laid out. It is designed to get you to the entrance of a trail - where a sign indicates the trail name. Over the years, countless access points and trails have been made for bypassing obstacles and recovery of broken vehicles. There is no possible way to portray all these on a map.

Use good judgement if you are not certain - get out and look at what is ahead of you!

The color of a trail line is the trail rating and some trail sections change color.

“Obstacles” are not trails. All are rated extreme. They are marked with an oval plaque and name of obstacle. These are also helpful in knowing where you are!

For questions or comments, please bring them to the office. THANK YOU
